

LOSS OF THE SCHOONER "JULIA,"

The Hawaiian schooner "Julia," Captain Tripp, went ashore on Nukunao Island, one of the Gilbert group, on the 10th January, and became a total wreck. Mr. F. L. Clarke, acting under instructions from Captain Tripp took passage in the bark "J. W. Seaver" bound for San Francisco, where he arrived on the 11th instant. He reports having fallen in with the sch. "Kaluna," and in having made arrangements with Captain Lovell, to proceed to the scene of the wreck and bring on the crew and passengers to Honolulu. No lives are reported as having been lost. The "Kaluna" may be expected daily.

In another column we reproduce an article from the New York Herald on the recent Cincinnati riot. This riot, as has been previously reported, originated from a verdict of manslaughter having been rendered by a jury in the case of one Berner indicted for murder, in spite of the clearest evidence having been adduced of his being guilty of the crime with which he was charged. We summarize the reports of this disgraceful affair from the very full account given in the Herald of April 5th:

Immediately after Berner's trial there was an indignation meeting held. Several jurors were mobbed. The authorities thinking that a mob might carry out the threats publicly made took every precaution to protect the prisoners. William Berner was sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years—the full limit of the law. Ten thousand persons gathered at the Music Hall in response to a call by reputable citizens to take action on the Berner verdict, and a Committee on Legislation was appointed. The riot alarm was sounded, summoning the entire police force to the jail. A shot or two was fired from the jail, but the crowd refused to move.

The militia were ordered out. The First regiment, Ohio National Guard, entered the jail at half-past eleven P.M.

Berner, after he was sentenced, was disguised and placed in a buggy with the Deputy-Sheriff and driven to Linwood.

Berner escaped.

At midnight about thirty musket shots were fired by the militia for the purpose of scaring the mob.

The jail was fired by a mob. The telephone wires were broken off early in order to prevent any communication with the outside. A huge beam was seized by as many men as could get hold of it, and used as a battering ram to break down the iron door, which was the last obstacle between the infuriated mob and the wretched prisoners who were listening with terrible dread to the thundering blows.

Berner was re-caught.

That most fearful street engine of destruction, the Gatling gun, belonging to the police force, was on duty.

On Sunday morning at 1 o'clock, it was said, such a night of blood had not before darkened the history of Cincinnati. The rioters stood in the streets in range of the soldiers' guns, apparently courting death. There was no method, no purpose apparent. It was a typical mob of madmen. One of the most melancholy events was the killing of Captain John J. Desmond. He had been advised of the purpose to burn the Court House, and was sent with a squad of militia to try to put out the fire. The mob fired on him and a ball crashed through his head. Captain Desmond was a young lawyer of much promise. He was a fine looking soldier, and the pride of his regiment. His loss on every account is deeply deplored. The Herald records the names of 82 others who were either killed or wounded seriously. On the 1st of April the troops withdrew, there being no further trouble with the mob.

Of the most careful lists, the dead from the total rioting and fighting reach forty-seven. Of the 127 known, and 150 probably wounded, nine or ten will die, and many lose limbs.

Ah Chow, Leong Tong and Sun Chuck Sin were on Thursday found guilty by a jury of having received stolen goods. His Honor the Chief Justice sentenced each of them to three years imprisonment at hard labor and a fine of $100. Ah Chow produced two female witnesses, who testified on his behalf. On being questioned as to the relationship between the parties the Court was seriously informed that the ladies were Ah Chow's wives. Had he not been found guilty of a more serious crime he would probably have had to answer a charge of bigamy.

The Supreme Court moved upstairs Thursday morning in order that the necessary preparations for the opening of the Legislature may be proceeded with.

The British Government presented the sleep Alert to the United States Government. The Alert has been built especially for Arctic service, and as there was no such vessel in the U. S. navy, the present was very acceptable for the Greeley relief expedition. She was built in 1856 and has been fourteen and one-half years in commission, and has not received new boilers since 1875.
